Eddie loves to play outside, but his allergies make it difficult. He sneezes uncontrollably, his nose runs, and his eyes itch. Eddie feels sad and frustrated because he can't enjoy the outdoors like other kids.

One day, Eddie meets a wise old doctor who helps him understand his allergies. The doctor explains that allergies are caused by the body's reaction to certain substances, like pollen, dust, and pet dander. The doctor also teaches Eddie how to manage his allergies with medication and lifestyle changes.

With the doctor's help, Eddie learns to cope with his allergies. He takes his medication regularly, avoids his triggers, and wears a mask when he's outside. Eddie is finally able to enjoy the outdoors and all the activities he loves.
