Born in Poland in 1922, Judith witnessed firsthand the unspeakable atrocities committed against her people. Devastated by the loss of her entire family, she miraculously survived Auschwitz and Bergen-Belsen, bearing the physical and emotional scars of her harrowing experiences.

In the aftermath of the war, Judith found herself struggling to reconcile her faith with the horrors she had endured. Driven by an insatiable thirst for understanding, she immersed herself in studying the Gospels, seeking solace and answers in the words of Jesus.

As she delved into the biblical texts, Judith discovered a profound resonance between her own life history and the stories of the Gospels. She recognized the parallels between her experiences of suffering, loss, and redemption with the narratives of Jesus' life, death, and resurrection.

In this extraordinary book, Judith weaves together her personal testimony with her insightful Biblical exegesis. She shares her experiences as a Holocaust survivor, recounting the horrors she witnessed and the resilience she found amidst unimaginable adversity.

Through her unique lens, Judith offers a compelling interpretation of the Gospels, highlighting their universal themes of love, compassion, forgiveness, and hope. She challenges traditional interpretations, offering a fresh perspective informed by her own lived experiences.

For Judith, the Gospels are not mere historical accounts but living narratives that speak to the human condition. She argues that their message of hope and redemption is not exclusive to Christians but is accessible to all who have endured suffering and seek meaning in their lives.
